LEGISLATORS OPPOSE USE OF TRINITY CHURCH.

PROTEST IS EASILY OVERRULED

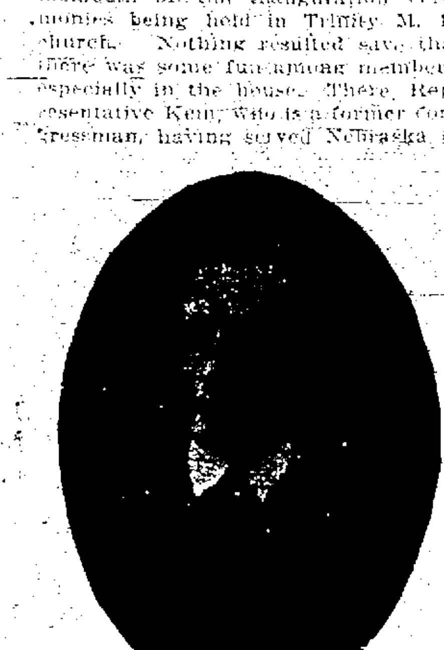

INAUGURATION IS DISCUSSED AT SOME LENGTH.

HOUSE COMMITTEES NAMED

Colorado Springs Members Are Given Prominent Places—Few Resolutions of Little Importance Considered in the Senate.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 7.—The sessions of both senate and house were enlivened this morning by objections filed by members of the inauguration ceremonies being held in Trinity M. E. church. Nothing resulted save that there was some fun among members, especially in the house. There, Representative Kem, who is a former congressman, having served Nebraska in

R. G. BRECKENRIDGE,
Speaker of the House, Who Announced His Committees for the Sixteenth Session Yesterday.

the national house, objected strenuously.

Mr. Dolph of Colorado Springs, chairman of the house part of the committee, drew a pathetic picture of Governor Buchtel's request. The governor had worked so long in the church, had been made chancellor of the university there and hoped that all the more important functions of his life would be celebrated in that church. In deference to his wishes, the Democratic members of the committee had moved that the inauguration be held in the church.

Protest Is Filed.

After Mr. Kem had filed his emphatic protest, Mr. O'Connell, Democratic member of the committee, replied that he had not gone on the committee as representing the minority of the house, but as a member of the body. He had not understood that it required a caucus of the minority to instruct him as to his action in the committee; might as well insist that he, as leader of the Democrats, must call a caucus when he wished to go to the senate to speak to a member there. "I can assure the members," wound up Mr. O'Connell, "that they will not have to join the Methodist church if they attend the ceremonies, and it will not harm their Democracy."

Both houses approved the action of the inauguration committee. A few resolutions of little importance were considered in the senate, which adjourned to tomorrow morning.

House Committees Announced.

In the house Speaker Breckenridge announced his committees, as follows:

Finance, Ways and Means, Nine Members—Fetzer, chairman; Dillingham, Stewart, Verner, Hickman, Paddock, Cohen, Wilder, MacKenzie.

AN IMPORTANT MISSION

INSURANCE BILL ENTRUSTED TO O. E. COLLINS.

Railroad Commission Bill Presented. Pure Food Bill Is Given Flying Start—First Considered.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—Representative O. E. Collins of El Paso county has been entrusted with the fate of the insurance bill drafted by the officers of the insurance department of the state government. The bill is considered one of the most important to be presented to the legislature, having been drafted after a most careful summing up of all reforms demanded in insurance affairs.

O. E. COLLINS,
Who Has Charge of Important Measure Before the House—Is Made Chairman Judiciary Committee.

It contemplates an almost entire revision of the insurance code of the state, some of the principal changes being: Governor, instead of auditor, to appoint the commissioner; commissioner to have authority to revoke licenses of companies that disregard state laws; life insurance companies must pay dividends after a short time; no contributions may be made to any political campaign; no misleading estimates to be published at any time; legal fire insurance companies to have more privileges, as long as complying with laws; every company to keep a guarantee fund with state.

The bill is a long one, covering all points that are to be covered, and it repeals all insurance legislation now on the statutes; that is, it is designed to be an entirely new start.

A railroad commission bill, modeled after the Texas law, was one of those put in. It has the misfortune to enter under Democratic chaperonage, so is likely to be side-tracked for another measure to be put in later. A bill for a pure-food law was introduced and was given a flying start, being referred to the committee on mercantile and manufacturing interests. It was at once returned to the house with the recommendation that it be printed. This bill is said to have been modeled after the national law, which fact will give it a running start when it comes before the house for consideration. Having been already referred to the printing committee it is likely to be the first bill considered in committee of the whole.

DEFIANT PROTEST

MONTROSE MEN CONDEMN GUGGENHEIM.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED

RESOLUTIONS ARE PASSED DENOUNCING SELECTION.

COMPARED TO HIGHWAYMAN

"Shall We Keep Silent," and Allow Men Who Were Ashamed to Mention Their Candidate's Name, Run Our Ship Upon the Rocks?"

MONTROSE, Colo., Jan. 7.—At a mass meeting held at the courthouse, attended by Republicans and Democrats, John Gray, mayor of Montrose, being chairman and O. C. Skinner secretary, resolutions condemning the methods employed by Simon Guggenheim in his efforts to secure the senatorship, and announcing the selection of the assembly were unanimously adopted. In part, they are as follows:

We, the voters of Montrose county, in nonpartisan convention assembled, feeling that it is our duty as self-respecting patriotic American citizens to make solemn protest against the election of Simon Guggenheim to the senate of the United States, as reasons therefor beg leave to call the attention of our fellow citizens of Colorado to the following facts:

It is conceded generally by Republicans for the past eighteen months the chairman and secretary of the Republican state central committee, who were selected by the influence of and to serve Simon Guggenheim, and a countless horde of Guggenheim workers, scattered throughout the state, have been busy night and day advancing the candidacy of Guggenheim for the senate, and that with a lavish hand he has furnished the money with which to remunerate and pay expenses of such chairman, secretary and horde of workers.

It is also conceded by Republicans generally that he tendered the cash to Republican candidates for the legislature with which to pay election expenses and that with few exceptions the money was accepted.

We ask in all candor would the name of Simon Guggenheim ever have been mentioned as a senatorial possibility had he not paid the purchase price for such mention?

When did he preside over or address a Republican meeting or convention?

What public utterance did he ever make pertaining to a political question, either through the press or from the rostrum?

When was any demand, not purchased, made for his election to the senate?

What evidence have we as to his fitness for the place?

Controlled Smelters.

For years Simon Guggenheim has been a controlling factor in the great smelter trust, a gigantic, conscienceless criminal organization, which has by shameless and inhuman methods strangled competition and impoverished its competitors.

Men who amass fortunes in this way are regarded as public enemies, just the same as they would be if they had desolated our farms, ravaged our towns, pillaged our cities.

They are denounced as deserving only the execration of their fellow men.

Chief among such is Simon Guggenheim.

Is it not plain that such a man would think nothing of putting $300,000, a mere trifle to him, into the Republican campaign fund?

Will he, if elected, be a fit representative of the people?

Will he as senator turn his back upon the system that placed him in power and give the people honest service?

Will his triumph be a step toward the election of senators by direct vote of the people?

From the standpoint of honor, decency and justice, is he not worse than the public highwayman?

Need we wonder that the people as a unit are against him?

Will not his election to the senate shock the conscience of the age.

Shall a corrupter of men—a notorious violator of law—the head and front of a monstrous system, the existence of which is an awful menace to our national existence, be elected to this high office in open defiance of the well-known will of the people?

Long prior to the campaign of 1906 he had been convicted at the bar of public opinion of the many heinous offenses that man, through trusts, commits, and against which a seemingly defenseless people have but feeble remedy.

Shall we for all time be bound by the spell of organized wealth?

Is There No Escape?

Is there no escape from blind greed on the one hand and upon the other hand insatiate unrest?

Considering the man, his methods and history, the wishes of the people—will not the legislature in his election be guilty of most monstrous perfidy—of outrage unspeakable?

Shall we keep silent and make no sign while the men who, during the campaign, were ashamed to mention their candidate's name, are about to run our ship upon the rocks?

Shall the people, without protest, be "crucified on this cross of gold?" Ought we not like men who stand erect to light the fires of protest in every valley and upon every hillside in the state—and keep them burning until the white heat of public indignation shall compel our legislature to repudiate machine politicians and party caucus?

Believing that a public office is a public trust, that the chosen representatives of the people should not be permitted without protest to betray their constituents and make the selection of a United States senator a matter of bargain and sale, as junk is sold in the market, that no man who typifies all that is evil in the trust system, which has by a criminal disregard of the laws of our country been enabled to rob and plunder the people, should be elected to the senate of the United States; that the patriotic conscience of the people demand that the senator to be selected by our incoming legislature shall be a man who represents the people, not the trusts; that the election of Simon Guggenheim to the United States senate would bring humiliation, shame and disgrace upon our people, and be justly regarded as a declaration upon our part that we are incapable of self-government and approvers of the infamous compact whereby the machine managers of the Republican party have attempted to barter away the senatorship, be it, therefore,

Resolved, by this nonpartisan convention of the voters of Montrose county, that we denounce and condemn as criminal and corrupt the unholy compact, and request our representative and senator to unite with the representatives and senators of other districts to the end that some worthy man, no matter of what party, who will represent the people, not the privileged class, and whose election will not bring dishonor to our state, but will prove an inspiration to those who have not lost faith in the principles of Roosevelt Republicanism and [illegible] Democracy, may be elected United States senator.

We have no sympathy with the sentiment that Simon Guggenheim should have the office because he has paid for it. "Honor among thieves" should have no place in the ethics of those who desire to perpetuate representative government.

We earnestly invite the co-operation of all good citizens of our state, that the spirit of our government and the integrity of the people may be preserved.

OATH OF OFFICE

ADMINISTERED TO GOVERNOR BUCHTEL TODAY.

CEREMONIES AT M. E. CHURCH

BIG MILITARY DISPLAY HAS BEEN ARRANGED.

WANTED STUDENTS AS GUARD

Chancellor Created Insurrection by Suggesting That Guard of Honor Be Composed of Students From University—Legislators Object.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—The inauguration of Governor Buchtel will be in Trinity M. E. church at high noon tomorrow. The military display has been arranged in compliance with the wishes of the incoming governor, who seems [illegible] to get all he can out of the ceremony. He has worked with the committee of the two houses in preparation for the event, most of the ideas he advanced being accepted at once.

HENRY A. BUCHTEL,
Who Today at Noon Will Be Inaugurated as Governor of the Commonwealth of Colorado.

Want Students as Guard of Honor.

But this morning he created what was almost an insurrection. The good doctor has a strong feeling for the students of the college, of which he is chancellor, believing that the young people have as much to get out of life as the older ones. This morning he suggested that a guard of honor be arranged for him, consisting of 40 young men and 40 young women from the university. The adoption of the plan would have sent the military far to the rear, which was not at all to the taste of the officers. After a few fierce moments the matter was dropped.

Both houses of the legislature will be called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning, transacting business until 11:30. At that hour carriages will be drawn up at the west door of the capitol to convey the members, as part of the parade, to Trinity church. The legislators object to the holding of the services at the church. In addition to the other objections noted to having the inauguration at Trinity, Senator Barela has asked if it will be necessary to go to the synagogue to swear in Senator Guggenheim.

COAL GOES SKY HIGH

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES MAY HAVE TO CLOSE.

High Prices and Scarcity of Coal in District May Hinder Operations. Fifty-Cent Increase.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—A new and higher schedule of prices on steam coal, used in the mines of Cripple Creek, went into effect today, a raise of 50 cents being inaugurated.

The price of steam coal has advanced three times within the last four months, and today there was not a car on any of the railroad tracks in the district. The situation is serious, and unless the famine is relieved at once, some of the mines may have to close.

The new scale is as follows: Crested Butte, mine run, $5.75, lump, $6.25—an immediate advance of 50 cents a ton. It was scarcely a month ago that the summer prices of 1906 were advanced 25 cents, and now comes a raise of 50 cents.

Brookside coal, a few months ago, was selling: Mine run, $4.25; lump, $5.75. Mine run is now selling at $5.75 and lump at $6.25. Southern coal and lignite have advanced from 10 to 25 cents a ton.

The coal barons give as reasons for the rapid and successive advances that wages have advanced, and the cost of materials used has advanced, which necessitates the advance in prices.

Domestic coal, commonly known as Canon City, has advanced 25 cents a ton to the wholesalers, but so far, no raise has been made to the consumer, over $7, the price in effect for some time.

ROME, Jan. 7.—Ambassador and Mrs. White gave a dinner tonight in honor of the Earl of Aberdeen, lord lieutenant of Ireland, and his countess.

ASSAILANT WAS NEGRO

MAN WHO ATTACKED CAPTAIN MACKLIN CAUGHT.

Finding of Khaki Uniform Leads to Arrest of Black Corporal, of Twenty-fifth Infantry.

GUTHRIE, Ok., Jan. 7.—A State Capitol special from Fort Reno says:

The finding of a khaki jacket, one sleeve of which was covered with blood and punctured presumably by a bullet, led to the arrest this afternoon of Corporal Knowles of the Twenty-fifth infantry, colored, on the charge of murderously assaulting Captain Edgar B. Macklin.

Had Flesh Wound in Wrist.

When arrested the negro officer was found to have a severe flesh wound in the wrist which he is said to have been treating himself for over three weeks. The wound in the wrist is declared to have been inflicted by the same size bullet as went through the sleeve of the jacket which bore Knowles' initials.

The officers at the fort and El Paso police do not doubt that the negro corporal is the masked man who on the night of December 21 called Captain Macklin to the back door of his home and shot him twice.

The jacket which led to Knowles' arrest was found near the fort Sunday by two boys.

Is Given Hearing.

Knowles was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Lowe at Fort Reno tonight, but up to this hour (11:30) it has been impossible to learn the result. It was stated at the fort that he would be taken to El Reno or Guthrie tonight. A pair of khaki trousers was found in the creek waters late this afternoon near where the jacket was found yesterday.

It was learned tonight that another arrest is to be made, and it is presumed that the man to be taken into custody is another negro soldier. He is being shadowed in El Reno tonight and will be arrested as soon as the hearing of Knowles at Fort Reno is concluded.

At midnight the hearing was adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when the prisoner will be given a chance to offer his defense.

Captain Macklin Positive.

While the officers decline to tell what passed in the room where the examination was held, it is stated upon good authority that Captain Macklin is positive that the prisoner is the man who shot him.

No other arrests have been made, but it is known that the police of El Reno are watching a discharged soldier, who is to be arrested when the other hearing is completed. It is said that Knowles is expected to give testimony implicating him.

C. C. DARROW TRAVELS INCOG.

Attorney Registers at Cripple Creek Hotel as C. J. Johnson.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—Clarence C. Darrow, the eminent Chicago attorney, who is defending Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, now incarcerated in the penitentiary at Caldwell, Idaho, awaiting trial for conspiracy in the murder of Governor Steunenberg, arrived here yesterday, incog.

Mr. Darrow registered at the National hotel under the name of C. J. Johnson, Denver. When seen today he said the fact that he was traveling incognito had no special significance. Mr. Darrow said he had some business in Cripple Creek of a private nature, and assumed the name of Johnson merely in order to complete his business without interruption as speedily as possible. He declined to be interviewed on any other subject.

DECISION IS REVERSED

SUPREME COURT FINDS ERROR IN RECORDS.

Londonderry Company Fares Better Than in El Paso Courts—Denver Co Court Exceeded Authority.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—The supreme court has reversed the decision of the El Paso courts in the litigation between the United Gold Mines company and the Londonderry Mining company, because of fatal error in the records. The error is found to be the refusal of the court to admit in evidence the location certificate of the Wichita lode, which, with the Henry Coby lode, is the property in controversy.

The court below refused to admit the certificate on the allegation that the description had not tied the lode ends to a natural object, as required by law. The judgment of the higher court was that the certificate was sufficiently definite, in that it located the lode with reference to other claims, from which it could be traced. The decision was a victory for the Londonderry people.

The court decided that the county court of Denver exceeded its authority when it attempted to inquire into the franchise elections last spring in a merely paternal manner, and without suit having been brought. Hence the fines assessed against F. A. Williams and others who refused to testify are held to be void and uncollectable. This is believed to forever dispose of all legal objection to the franchises awarded different public utility companies in Denver last spring.

The cases brought against the trading stamp people, under a law passed at the last session of the legislature, were decided in favor of the stamps. The courts hold that the promise of the stamps was a definite one, and not in the nature of any gift enterprise or lottery.

POOR GAS SERVICE THE CAUSE

Los Angeles Health Board Attributes Thirty-one Deaths to Fuel Famine.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Dr. L. M. Powers, president of the city health board, stated today that 31 deaths in this city within the past few weeks, caused from pneumonia, were attributable in a direct way to the poor gas service and fuel famine. The "off and on" gas service nearly caused three deaths again today from asphyxiation. Mr. and Mrs. Turn Mathie, of 1745 West Jefferson street, and Percy Vickers, of 505 South Main street, were rendered unconscious from the fumes of gas which had stopped flowing suddenly in the pipes and then again through the open jets.

BODY FOUND UNDER BRIDGE

New York Physician Robbed, Then Thrown Over Bridge.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 7.—The body of Dr. Philip Edward Johnson, a physician of New York, was found tonight under the Jefferson street bridge. An examination of the body revealed the fact that the doctor had been robbed and his body cast over the bridge and his watch had been unfastened from its fob and removed. No other valuables were found. Dr. Johnson and his wife came here from New York a short time ago.

LENGTHY DEBATE

DISMISSAL OF THE COLORED TROOPS OCCUPIES SENATE.

FORAKER CONCLUDES TODAY

NEW PHASE DEVELOPED BY SENATOR LODGE.

ADDRESS ON JAP QUESTION

Senator Gearin Argues for Resolution Directing Negotiations for Revision of Treaty—House Passes Bill Affecting Postal Frauds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt's dismissal of the negro troops was again the subject of contention in the senate today and indications point to protracted debate before any of the pending resolutions on the subject are voted on.

Senator Lodge developed a new phase of the question by presenting a resolution providing for an investigation of the "affray" at Brownsville and by silence conceding the authority of the president to take the action he did. This resolution was supported by Mr. Foraker, who followed and spoke until 5:30 giving notice then that he would conclude tomorrow.

For Revision of Treaty.

Previously to this debate the senate listened to a two hours address on the Japanese question by Senator Gearin, who argued for a resolution directing the opening of the negotiations with Japan for a revision of our treaty with that nation.

The house today passed a bill providing for a judicial review of orders excluding persons from the use of United States mail facilities after a debate that most of the day.

Postal Fraud Order.

In presenting reasons why the bill should be passed, Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana, its author, said the power given to the postmaster general under the statutes to issue fraud orders was not at all an administrative discretion. It rather partook of the nature of a police power for the regulation of the morals of the people of the country. Mr. Crumpacker contended that the whole fraud order law was an unusual proceeding in that if it had been confined to institutions and practices that were essentially fraudulent or were inherently bad and criminal, such as green goods concerns, lotteries and the like, as originally contemplated by congress, there would be no complaint against it.

Mr. Mann of Illinois read from several advertisements which he said seemed to show that concerns were still doing business that ought to come within the scope of fraud orders. He said the bill was defective and that there should be no letting down of the bars to permit doubtful concerns to fleece the public.

TO SEIZE COAL FOR SCHOOLS

'Frisco Police Come to Rescue of Board of Education in Relieving Fuel Famine.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Under orders of Chief of Police Dinan and at the request of the board of education, a detail of twenty policemen will mount a train of wagons tomorrow and go to the bunkers of the Western Fuel company to seize coal for the use of the school houses. Three schools—the Fairmount, the Franklin and the Columbia—had to be dismissed this morning because of the lack of fuel. The contractor who had the contract to supply the school department with coal declares that the Western Fuel company will not sell coal at the figure named in the contract and that the fuel company alleges that it has no coal on hand to supply any contracts, notwithstanding the ship Sheila, laden with 6,000 tons consigned to the Western Fuel company, reached port yesterday. School directors, Boyle and Oliver, made the request on Chief Dinan for the policemen and the [illegible] granted.

OVER SEVENTY ARE DROWNED

Particulars of Cruiser Chitose Disaster Reported by Steamer Empress Passengers Panic Stricken.

VICTORIA, B. C. Jan. 7.—The steamer Empress of Japan, brought further particulars of the disaster to Japanese blue jackets of the cruiser Chitose in Tokio bay, recently reported by cable.

A fishing boat with 99 petty officers and blue jackets and 30 visitors left the Chitose laying at anchor five miles from shore to land at Shinagawa. A northerly gale sprang up and soon the sea was very heavy. The boat began to fill and the crowded passengers became confused causing the vessel to capsize. A fishing boat in passing rescued 43 persons. Fearing the vessel would be capsized by many swimmers who clung to her, the crew fought them off and put off. Over seventy were drowned. Fifty-eight bodies were recovered by night. The Chitose is one of the cruisers chosen to visit the United States, to attend the Jamestown Exposition.

NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS TO BE SWORN IN.

Many Appointments Made—Outgoing Officers Have Consolation Feast at Alta Vista Hotel.

The change in administration of the county officials takes place today, the law designating the second Tuesday in January as the expiration of the old term and the beginning of the new. No special time is set for the transfer of the various offices, and the board of county commissioners, together with the various other county officials, will make their appointments at any time during the day that suits their convenience.

The county commissioners will probably reappoint Dr. H. L. Richardson as county physician and C. L. Holland as county attorney.

The following officials will assume their duties today:

District Judges John W. Sheafor, W. S. Morris and J. E. Owens of Teller county; County Commissioner B. A. Banta; County Clerk Joseph Schisler; County Treasurer E. R. Simmons; County Assessor F. F. Schreiber; County Sheriff Orrie D. Grimes; County Superintendent of Schools Mrs. Florence M. Stolz; Justices W. N. Ruby and O. R. Dunnington; Constable, W. P. Larrabee and Harvey Gillingham.

The retiring officials are: County Clerk W. H. Reed, County Treasurer C. A. Pollen, District Judges L. W. Cunningham and W. P. Seeds, Superintendent of Schools E. M. Collins.

District Judges Sheafor and Morris yesterday made the following appointments: District clerk, Edgar Howbert; deputy district clerk, O. E. Rickerson Jr.; stenographers, Mrs. Ida C. Hutson and F. C. Wright.

Treasurer Simmons' appointees are: Ralph Bradfield, chief deputy; Gus Liebold, bookkeeper; Joseph Clark, M. I. Madden and H. G. Gogsdill, clerks.

County Clerk Schisler has made the following appointments: Chief deputy Arthur M. Hill; clerk to board of county commissioners, Charles E Shorb; index clerk, Miss Rena Strong; clerks, L. L. Baxter and Miss Bertha Brown.

County Assessor Schreiber has appointed the following: W. F. Benedict, chief deputy; William Brockhurst, J. J. Murphy, E. R. Harper, Anna V. Grafton, Florence M. Herring, Mabel G. Boyles and J. E. Jackson, clerks.

County Sheriff Grimes will retain George Dayton as undersheriff, Harry Allward as chief deputy, and John Scofield as jailor.

The officials of the retiring administration gave a "consolation dinner" to themselves and a few invited guests at the Alta Vista hotel last night, and made merry with feast and speech. Some clever wit composed a program of toasts, characterized as "roasts," and a bill of fare, designated "meanyou," that made a hit with the assembled "outs," from the "disappointment cocktail" until they got down to "brass tacks." The "roasts" and "meanyou" were as follows:

COUNTY COURT DOCKET.

More Than a Score of Liquor Cases to Be Heard This Month.

Judge Robert Kerr yesterday set the county court docket for this month, more than a score of liquor cases being included in the list. The court set every liquor case pending on the docket, only a few other cases being set.

Following is the docket for the January term:

January 14—Schneider vs. Gill, People vs. Goddard, People vs. Dawson, People vs. Manley.

Cured of Piles by Pyramid Pile Cure

If You Suffer, You Can Be Cured. Costs Nothing to Try.

If you think that you must be operated upon to be cured of piles, you are wrong. Thousands of cases of piles of excruciating severity—worse no doubt than yours, have been cured painlessly, quickly and permanently, while the patient has been at his work without the loss of time necessitated by an operation. In fact, many a sufferer has not been able to laugh his work of even move across the room until after using the home remedy prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co.

No More Piles! One Box Cured—Only 50 Cts!

Such was the condition of an Indiana business man, as shown in a recent letter:

"Received your sample of Pile Cure and have given it a fair trial and it has proven the best I ever tried. I can recommend you highly in this vicinity. Have used your sample and one box and it has effected a complete cure. It has been worth $100 to me.

"Thanking You for the sample and the cure, I will recommend you to everybody. Yours respectfully, John Mayer, Dealer in Feathers, Ginseng and Hides, Bedford, Ind."

The Pyramid Pile Cure can be used at home in the privacy of your own room. There is enough strength to each little suppository to drive out infection, while at the same time it melts away into the deadened tissues of the rectum, heals up the fissures, relieves the inflammation, starts the circulation of the hemmorrhoidal veins, diminishes the congestion and brings the organs back to their normal condition.

We want to prove to every sufferer from piles that the Pyramid Pile Cure will cure. This treatment is prepared exclusively by the Pyramid Drug Co., which is sufficient evidence of its genuineness. However, we do not ask you to depend upon the reliability of our name or the hope fide testimonials of the hundreds of cured piles sufferers. Send us your name and address for a free trial package. Use it according to directions. The relief you will get will justify your going at once to the druggists for a 50 cent box. All druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure, just like the sample. Accept no substitute. Pyramid Drug Co., 76 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LOCAL MEN FARE WELL

GET GOOD PLACES ON HOUSE COMMITTEES.

Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek Members Secure Important Chairmanships.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—The Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek members of the house fared well in the assignment of chairmanships and good places on committees. C. W. Dolph was given the chairmanship of the committee on rules, the most important on the list, and is also on the judiciary, criminal code, railroads, insurance and revision and constitution committees.

G. E. Collins is chairman of the committee on judiciary, and member of the criminal code, state institutions, engrossment, house expenses, committees.

R. J. Verner is chairman of the committee on constitutional amendments and member of the labor, finance and appropriations committees.

W. O. Dray is chairman of the committee on enrollment and member of the game, railroads, agriculture, mines and mining, and appropriations committees.

J. J. Winters is chairman of the committee on insurance, and member of the mines and mining, elections and appointments, state affairs, and mercantile affairs committees.

E. M. Turner is chairman of the committee on printing, and member of the corporations, counties and county lines, house expenses, medical affairs and public health, and towns and cities committees.

Speaker Breckenridge departed from previous customs in naming his committees. Heretofore 34 has been the largest number in any session of the house. Mr. Breckenridge increased the number to 38, by splitting a number of those that have been kept particularly busy. The committee on corporations and railroads was cut in two, each head being made a separate committee. So with the committees on insurance and banking, and on temperance and medical affairs. The work of the judiciary committee was split, part going to a committee of the same name and another part to the committee on criminal code. The division gave opportunities for four more chairmanships, besides making it possible for work to be expedited.

STRIKE FORMALLY CALLED OFF

Agreement Is Signed by Labor Men and Representatives of Roads Affected.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 7.—The strike of the Southern Pacific firemen was formally called off at noon today following the signing of an agreement by Vice President and General Manager Thornwell Fay and General Manager G. M. VanVleck of the Harriman roads affected by the strike; Vice Grand Chief W. H. Wills for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Vice Grand Master Timothy Shea for the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen.

The agreement went into effect at noon. It provides:

1—A board of three arbitrators shall determine whether or not the Southern Pacific abrogated its contract with the firemen when it signed the new agreement May 1, 1906, with the engineers. The company shall name one of the board, the fireman shall name a second and the two thus chosen shall select a third.

2—All employes who went on strike shall return to their former positions without prejudice to their rights.

3—The seniority of members who went on strike shall be determined at a meeting of the general board of adjustment of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the Southern Pacific Atlantic system, at a meeting to be held in Houston, Thursday, January 10.

4—What each organization shall concede shall be determined by the board of arbitration.

Practically all of the men on strike have already returned to work or will resume their former positions within the next 24 hours.

The railroad company will provide for the really serviceable men employed during the strike, but the strike breakers who were brought from outside points will be dismissed.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 7.—The schooner Henry Shutten, of Newport, Captain Cole, which sailed from Chevoy, N. S., October 31, for Baltimore with a cargo of lumber before reported missing has been given up as lost with crew of six.

Bravery of Captain and Crew of the Steamer City of Panama Saves Lives of Passengers.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 7.—Lewis Kaiser, United States consul at Port Mazatlan, Mexico, has telegraphed to the Associated Press the story of the south bound trip of the Pacific Mail line steamer City of Panama which for days was thought to have been lost off the California coast.

The story shows that the fears for the safety of the vessel were well grounded, as the trip was thrilling, replete with danger, narrow escapes and heroic action on the part of the officers and crew. One life was lost, that of Manuel Acona, a Chilean.

"We left San Francisco, on December 31," says Captain Nelson, "with 35 passengers on board. While we were crossing the bar a terrible northwester struck us and the little steamer tossed like a chip on the sea. The storm increased in fury and we were in the teeth of the hurricane for 17 consecutive hours. During the height of the gale, the life boat davit crashed against the deck and was broken, and everything movable on board the steamer was washed overboard. As the storm was increasing, it was decided to run for a haven and the crippled craft was finaly brought safely into Drakes bay on the coast of California. The boat waited for the storm to subside and then proceeded on her journey, arriving at the port of Mazatlan at 6 o'clock Sunday night."

The passengers highly praised the brave conduct and efficiency of the crew, captain and crew. A collection was taken up, the proceeds to be used for the purchase of gold medals for the crew that manned the life boat during the height of the storm.

NAPLES, Jan. 7.—A portion of the railroad up Mount Vesuvius between Torre Annunzia and Bosco Trecase, which was destroyed by the eruption of last April has been rebuilt and will be opened January 13.

Personal Mention

O. E. Rickerson and William Barr left last night for Lander, Nev., where they will engage in mining.

E. S. Beswell is again in Manitou looking after the Mansions hotel, of which he is manager and proprietor.

J. H. Gilbert, Jr., traveling passenger agent for the Missouri Pacific railway, spent yesterday in Colorado Springs.

W. S. Boynton, who has been ill at the Brown Palace hotel in Denver, returned to this city yesterday morning.

W. F. Yeo, traveling passenger agent for the Pennsylvania road with headquarters in Denver, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Yourt and daughters, Julia and Caroline, leave this evening for Stockton, Cal., where they will make their home.

Miss Elizabeth Tabor has returned to her home in Greeley, after a visit with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Gleanard W. Blake, 1224 North Weber street.

The Rev. W. C. Wallace, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, left yesterday for Greeley, where he will conduct a series of evangelistic services.

MAY NOT BE HANGED

McDonald and Buchtel Decline to Sign McGarvey Death Warrant.

Peculiar circumstances surrounding the signing of the death warrant of John McGarvey, a former Colorado Springs man, who is condemned to be hanged during this week, may result in his reprieve, temporarily, at least. Governor McDonald does not want to sign McGarvey's death warrant, because he is going out of office and does not want such a proceeding to be his last official act. Governor-elect Buchtel is unwilling to sign the death warrant, because he does not want the gruesome act to be among his first official duties, and Warden Cleghorn claims he cannot hang McGarvey unless the death warrant is signed by the governor.

Governor Buchtel may investigate McGarvey's case, and a reprieve is not improbable. The prisoner must either be hanged or reprieved this week.

COLLEGE VACATION ENDS TODAY

Students Return to Work—All Buildings Have Been Repaired and Renovated.

Colorado college opens this morning after its holiday vacation. Many of the students arrived yesterday and others will be in on today's trains. By this evening the college residences will be again filled. Very few of the 350 students remained in the city during the vacation and the absence of the students was taken advantage of to have all the buildings put into first-class condition as regards repairs and renovating.

Several members of the faculty have been occupied with special work, and President Slocum has not been able to be away on account of the large amount of accumulated matters that had to be looked after during the holidays.

The hydraulic laboratory of the engineering school has been put into shape during the last few weeks, and the opening of this department adds much to the effectiveness of this part of the college.

"The college feels intensely the pressure of its needs caused by the growth of the institution along all lines," said President Slocum last night. "Much more room is needed for the housing of the students, the limitations of the dining room accommodations, especially for the young women, being keenly felt. It is necessary that those living in the west end of the Plaza hotel should be brought to the college campus just as soon as possible. The growth of fraternity houses has somewhat relieved the demand for a large men's dormitory, although, this, too, is much needed.

"A large and fully-equipped engineering building is required in the very near future, and probably nothing will render such great service to Colorado as the erection of such a building.

"However," said Dr. Slocum, "the one thing above all others that Colorado college must have immediately is a greatly enlarged endowment. The income of its invested funds is still so very small in proportion to what is required of the college that this is a constant source of the greatest anxiety."

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

In the district court yesterday, in the case of Campbell vs. Hitchcock, the plaintiff asked leave to file a supplemental complaint, on the ground that Hitchcock had transferred stock to a fictitious person and had changed the by-laws of the company to avoid the court's order. The plaintiff also asked for an injunction restraining the defendants from holding a meeting this afternoon, claiming that said meeting is for the purpose of transacting business prohibited by a previous order of the court. Arguments were heard by Judge J. W. Sheafor and the plaintiff's motion and petition will be decided in chambers this morning.

In the county court yesterday an appeal was filed from a justice court, in the case of W. S. Mitchell vs. H. W. Wyman.

J. E. Collins, recently arrested on a charge of stealing pipe and fixtures from vacant houses in this city, was yesterday bound over to the district court by Justice W. N. Ruby.

Frank Spears was fined $25 and costs for drunkenness, in the police court yesterday.

An answer and cross complaint was filed by the defendant in the district court yesterday in the case of George H. Baird, et al vs. Louisa M. Baird.

COUNCIL CANCELS $27,625.79 OF 1906 APPROPRIATIONS.

Over $6,000 of Unexpended Water Construction Bonds Are Held Over.—New Clerks Wanted.

The city council last night canceled, in unexpended appropriations for the year 1906, the sum of $27,625.79, in addition to $1.73 in the cemetery and printing fund. There was also $5,045.32 in unexpended water construction bonds which was last night held over for 1907 improvements. The only claims against the unexpended appropriations [illegible] $80.04 for street are lights and of Fairley Brothers and Fairley for $399 and interest, alleged commission due for purchase of the city hall furnishings. The Hydro company's pay for street arc lights is withheld pending the outcome of the city's claim against the company exceeding $16,000, for alleged overcharge previous to June 1. No payment has been made to the company by the city since that date.

The council concurred in the recommendation of City Auditor Perry, that $61.54 worth of warrants, over six years old, be canceled, and also voted to pay bills aggregating $280.77, incurred during 1906. The council approved the auditor's transfer of minor accounts from one fund to another.

Reports of various officers were referred to the finance committee.

F. A. Yount, formerly driver of the ambulance, who was injured during an illuminated fire run of the police and fire departments in November, 1905, submitted a bill for his wages at $75 per month for the entire time, less $87.50, which was donated to him by the city after the accident. The bill, which approximates $900, is based on the claim that the city has never formally removed Yount from office. The matter was referred to the police committee and city attorney.

Recommendations Approved.

The recommendations of the street committee were approved as follows: That the Wulff-Sullivan Shoe company be permitted to install an electric sign at its place of business, 118 South Tejon street; that the owner of the same building be instructed to raise the grade of the sidewalk to conform with the correct grade, and also be instructed to provide gutters from the water spouts to the cubb, and that the owner of the Robinson drug store building be instructed to raise the grade of the sidewalk at the north end of the building, on Tejon street, to conform with the correct grade. The street committee was also authorized to place an arc light on Washington avenue, between Eighth and Eleventh streets, the exact location to be determined.

On motion of Chairman Seldomridge of the water committee, which investigated the case of Thomas Shannon, an employe on the Seven Lakes reservoir, who was recently injured, the council voted to give Shannon $200 in full payment of any claim which he may have against the city. The money will be drawn from the Seven Lakes construction fund, and will be placed in the hands of Alderman Hosman as trustee.

The council passed a resolution to supply the Union Printers' home with additional water from Prospect lake, at an annual rental of $100. This water will aid the home in carrying out its projected landscape and lawn improvements.

Will Have New Clerks.

A motion was passed authorizing Water Commissioner Melville Yates to appoint his clerk, and also empowering City Clerk K. M. MacMillan to appoint an assistant. Auditor G. M. Perry and the health department were also authorized to select an assistant, who will divide his duties between the two offices. These motions are in line with the revised ordinances, which, when formally passed, will empower the head of each department to appoint his own assistants, the council approving. The aldermen point out that if the department head is responsible for the acts of his subordinate, he should be allowed to appoint them.

Dr. A. F. McKay, who intends advertising Colorado Springs in the east, explained his project to the council, with a view to securing an appropriation in its support. The Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' association, city council and other public and semipublic associations will be asked to contribute toward the expenses of the advertising tour. Dr. McKay intends to place before the physicians and other professional men of the east, photographs, data, etc., showing the wonderful record of Colorado during the winter of 1905-1906. The council took no action, but will take up the matter at a later meeting.

For the first time in many months no time was set at adjournment for the next meeting night, and the council will convene at the regular date, Monday night, January 28.

MRS. E. GOWDY PASSES AWAY

Widow of Former City Attorney Dies After Long Illness—Funeral to Be Held Wednesday.

The many friends of Mrs. Ella Gowdy, widow of J. K. Gowdy, formerly city attorney of Colorado Springs, who died ten years ago, will be grieved to learn of her death at her home, 524 North Nevada avenue, at 8:45 o'clock last night. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at a place and time not yet determined. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery. Mrs. Gowdy is survived by a son, Frank, and five daughters Maude, Harriett, Lucy, Helen and Josephine, and one son, Frank. Two of the daughters, Lucy and Harriett, live in Denver. Mrs. Gowdy is well known in this city. She had been afflicted with tuberculosis for some time.

TO REFORM PRISONS

W. E. COLLETT DELIVERS LECTURE ON JAIL METHODS.

An Appropriation Should Be Made by the State for Improvement of Colorado Institutions.

Prisons, reformatories and industrial schools and the good and bad methods in their direction, was the subject of an instructive lecture at Perkins hall last night by W. E. Collett, secretary of the Colorado Prison Reform association. The building was crowded almost to its capacity and Mr. Collett, by [illegible] held the undivided interest of all present until the end. Some of the views showed undesirable features still in vogue in some American prisons, but the majority were illustrations of the most up-to-date [illegible] prisons, reform schools and industrial institutions.

Mrs. James B. Gregg introduced the speaker, in the absence of the president of the Colorado Springs Women's club, Mrs. D. A. Sawyer, who is in California. In her remarks Mrs. Gregg referred to the motto of the club, "Not for Ourselves Alone but Others," and said that the subject to be presented by Mr. Collett was one which enlisted the sympathy of all the members, who could not fail to be interested in the uplifting of those who had fallen by the wayside. She referred in highly complimentary terms to the work done by Mr. Collett for the betterment of the unfortunate and criminal classes with the object of reformation for the future.

Conditions in Chicago.

The first views shown were of the jails in Chicago, including the Cook county institution, one of the largest in America. Mr. Collett spoke in the warmest terms of appreciation of the work being done in this jail by the warden, John L. Whitman, who has introduced many features of a reformatory nature since taking office. He has abolished the notorious "Kangaroo Court" and had instituted the Self-Improvement association with its comprehensive scheme of manual training, physical culture and education. The conditions here are unusually difficult to handle owing to the fact that about 60 per cent of the inmates are foreign born and many have neither education or knowledge of the English language. Several pictures of the Bridewell, a great reformatory school of Chicago, were also shown which gave a good idea of the methods used in keeping the men and women employed at useful occupations and in their spare moments are given an opportunity for exercise and mental improvement. There are about 1250 adults and 450 boys and girls in the institution, all of whom are employed for a certain number of hours each day at useful labor in making rocking chairs, brooms, brushes, clothes, brick, etc. These products are used only for municipal institutions and are not put on the open market for sale. Large quarries are being worked and a ten-acre garden gives employment to the older and more infirm of the male inmates. A large number of the women are employed in the municipal laundry and a good prison library furnishes suitable reading material for both sexes. The cost of maintenance is about $225,000 a year and the products of the prisoners' toil aggregate about one-third of this amount.

A Darker Side.

A darker side of prison life was shown in the views of the old Cherry Hill penitentiary at Philadelphia, which is the only remaining prison in America to use the "solitary" system and the ancient methods of government, in which, the speaker said, there are no redeeming features in the way of leading the prisoners to a better life. The conditions are extremely forbidding and unhealthy and are calculated more to embitter and harden the inmates than to turn them from their evil ways into the path of honesty and morality. All the exercise the prisoners get is in a dirty, muddy yard surrounded by high walls, where they are allowed thirty minutes each day and the conditions are so forbidding that they doubtless regard this more in the light of punishment than privilege.

"This is an institution," said Mr. Collett, "that the president of the United States should take cannon to and batter down. That is all it is fit for."

Sing Sing prison at Auburn, N. Y., which is soon to be destroyed and replaced by a modern institution, is badly situated insofar as drainage and sanitation are concerned, but the management is making the best possible use of the facilities as they exist for the betterment of the inmates, and all are being taught some useful trade wherewith to earn a livelihood after their terms expire. The reformatory at Elmira, N. Y., for boys was shown, with its several features, as being one of the most model of its kind in the country. That for girls at Bedford, under the management of Dr. (Miss) Davis, has become a model institution, doing a work that has attracted the attention of reformers all over the world. Miss Rogers, who has lately taken charge of the Industrial School for Girls in this state, was formerly an associate of Dr. Davis, and is introducing similar methods there.

Situation in Colorado.

Several views of the Colorado state penitentiary at Canon City, and of the reformatory for boys at Buena Vista, were shown, and the work of Superintendent C. A. Dutcher in the latter institution was highly commended. Both institutions, however, are in need of certain changes, and the latter especially, is in [illegible] need of an appropriation for new buildings, some of which were designated as a disgrace to such an institution and "not fit for the housing of burros."

"It is to be hoped," said Mr. Collett, "that the new governor of this state will receive active support in carrying into effect his proposed plans for the betterment of prisoners so that they shall work for four hours of the day at some useful labor for the state and have four hours of the day to labor for themselves, so that when they come out they may have money enough to fit themselves out in clothes and have something to [illegible] instead of having to face the world as paupers with the prospect of having to steal or do something worse for a living."

HEARST AND THE MAYORALTY.

THOUGH more than a year has passed since George B. McClellan defeated William R. Hearst in the New York mayoralty contest, a suit has just been started by the Attorney-General of the state to oust Mr. McClellan on the ground that the office rightfully belongs to Mr. Hearst. This procedure is approved by Governor Hughes, who only two months ago defeated Hearst by a substantial majority in the Gubernatorial election.

Ever since the fight for the mayoralty there has been a strong suspicion, even on the part of Hearst's bitterest enemies, that he was beaten by fraud. It will be remembered that he ran on a municipal ownership and labor ticket in opposition to Ivins, Republican, and McClellan, the Tammany candidate. Hearst's candidacy was formidable from the beginning, and it early became apparent that Tammany had the hottest fight in several years on its hands. When the votes were counted Ivins was far back in the running, and McClellan was the winner by a plurality of 3,468 votes—certainly not a decisive victory in an election in which nearly 600,000 votes were cast.

Hearst has been fighting for the office ever since, but thus far he has been unable to make any headway. He charges—and it is known to be true—that Tammany bosses resorted to fraudulent methods of various kinds. Whether they would have won without these frauds is another question, and, indeed, it is by no means certain that Hearst would have mustered such remarkable strength without the aid of fraud.

But however that may be, it is plain that if Hearst can show that he got the most honest votes he should have the office. It is hard to imagine a much greater public calamity than to have such a man in any public office of importance, but that point has no bearing on the case. No matter how reprehensible a candidate may be, he is entitled to the office if a majority of the votes select him for it, and there is good reason to believe that this is what happened in Hearst's case.

It is interesting to speculate on what would happen if Hearst actually succeeded in ousting McClellan. During the recent Gubernatorial campaign the present Mayor opposed his former rival, though he did not take an active part in the fight. The Tammany organization was supposed to "go down the line" for Hearst, though he continually denounced it, but "Pat" McCarren, the Brooklyn leader, openly knifed the candidate, and was supported in his position by Richard Croker, the former boss who is now in voluntary exile in England. If Hearst should win his suit and become Mayor he would find himself at outs with the rest of the administration, all of whom are dyed-in-the-wool Tammanyites. But that would not worry him much, for he would be in a strong position to run for another term, thus gratifying once more his mania for office-seeking.

THE WORLD'S GOLD SUPPLY.

ABOUT fifteen years ago a German scientist created a mild sensation by predicting that the world's gold supply would soon begin to diminish regularly each year, thus causing unparalleled industrial and financial depression. But so far from being verified, the prediction has been thoroughly disproved, and now the Director of the United States Mint estimates that the world's average annual gold production for the next twenty years will reach the enormous sum of $400,000,000.

A writer in a recent number of Moody's Magazine, a financial publication, presents interesting figures as to the gold production of recent years. It takes several months to collect and tabulate such statistics, so the returns for the year just ended are not given, but those for 1905 are complete. In that year the world's gold output of $379,000,000 surpassed all previous records, the increase over 1904 being nearly $30,000,000, or 8.8 per cent. North America came first with $118,000,000 to its credit, Africa second with $115,000,000, and Australasia third with $85,000,000.

In the United States, Colorado as usual held first place, producing $25,000,000. California was second with $19,000,000, and Alaska third with $14,000,000. The increase in the gold production of our great northern territory in recent years is marvelous. The year 1905 showed a gain of 50 per cent over 1904, and it is estimated that when the totals for 1906 are in, the figure will not be far from $20,000,000. Nevada produced $5,000,000 in 1905, which of course is only a bagatelle compared with its output of last year. Mexico turned out $14,000,000 and South America $11,000,000.

On the other side of the globe, Russia (including Siberia) leads with $22,000,000. The remainder of Asia produced $24,000,000, half of which came from British India, while China and Japan contributed $4,500,000 each.

According to the writer here quoted, the United States leads all countries in gold production in recent times, its output to date reaching the stupendous total of $2,860,854,000. Australasia ranks second with $2,500,500,000, and Russia third with $2,185,280,000. The writer has a very high opinion of Australasia, declaring that its gold-bearing areas "are beyond comparison greater than in any other country." Mining operations there are practically in their infancy and vast auriferous areas are scarcely touched, it is fifty-five years since produced almost as much gold as the United States in 112 years, and this with an amount of capital that sinks into insignificance when compared with the immense amount invested in the development of the American gold fields.

It is only fair to add, though, that gold-mining operations on a really large scale began at about the same time in both countries. Gold was first discovered in Australia in 1850, or a year later than the opening of the California fields. Prior to that time the United States had produced a comparatively insignificant quantity of the precious metal, none of the Rocky Mountain region having ever been prospected. So the two countries may truthfully be said to have started in the business on almost even terms, and the fact that the United States has thus far turned out a third of a billion dollars more gold would seem to indicate that it is at least as rich in the yellow metal as its rival in the South Seas.

The annual meeting of the El Paso Humane Society, held yesterday afternoon in Palmer Hall, calls to mind the great importance of this organization. Much of the work done belongs to the city, and it is proper that the Council should share in its support just as it should also bear a part of the expenses incurred by the organized charities. Both of these societies require generous contributions from the people of Colorado Springs, and large numbers of citizens will no doubt take pleasure in helping on their good work.

At the beginning of the present session of Congress it was announced that very little important legislation would be attempted, as the shortness of the session would prevent. Yet the Senate has already wasted several days squabbling over the Brownsville affair, and evidently intends to devote several more days to it. If there is time to devote to such trivial matters, there surely is time for the really important business on hand.

Mr. F. Augustus Heinze, of Montana, sailed into Wall Street the other day and captured control of a Gould bank. When it comes to giving Wall Street a shock, there's nobody that can turn the trick like a wild and woolly Westerner, just off the range.

Mr. Rockefeller advises everybody to save something for a rainy day, and the advice is considered worth printing, just as though hundreds of wiser people than Mr. Rockefeller hadn't given the same advice long before he was born.

After all, there may be one good thing about the Guggenheim candidacy—it has put a lot of Smelter Trust money into circulation. But this is one of the things that depend on the point of view.

If there are any railroads in the country that have escaped Mr. Harriman's tenacious grasp, now is the time for them to stand up and be counted.

What's the matter with the president? A whole week passed and not a single special message to Congress!

Mr Guggenheim's methods may be simon-pure; but in this case the adjective doesn't have the usual meaning.

Press Opinions

THE TRUE HUMORIST.

From the North American Review.

In this country, where the sense of humor is not only developed, but refined, sarcasm and satire long ago ceased to be regarded with favor; even wit must be harmless, and mere smartness in evasion of a serious pledge would be considered intolerable.

The true humorist is patterned after the real lady, who, we are informed, always remembers others and never forgets herself.

STATISTICIANS STILL AT WORK.

From the Kansas City Star.

Now that the campaign statistician is in evidence no more, the papers are "easing off" with a few such stunts as these: If all the noses on all the human being in the world were one nose it would be 731,528,870,104 agate lines from tip to base and 793,615,107,131 agate lines from upper lip to the tip. It could smell onions cooking on the fixed star Algenib, provided the hay fever in 44.69 of 1 per cent of the nose did not affect the entire nose. If all the kangaroos in Australia were one kangaroo it could jump from Cape Wales, Australia, to Christianshaab, Greenland, in one jump. If it should alight with both feet on Christianshaab glacier it would start a wave that would do $21,311,045 damage to shipping and docks at Reykjavik, Iceland.

HOW GERMANS PUSH TRADE.

From the Pittsburg Post.

While we have been talking about increasing our merchant marine and expanding our foreign trade, Germany has been going ahead and accomplishing much in both lines. In recent years, according to our consular reports, the German empire has succeeded in getting a good hold of trade in the Mediterranean, putting ships into service where Great Britain and other countries have been supreme. The reason for this gain, as given by a leading German commercial paper, is the excellent modern equipment and service of the German ships. The Germans are pushing their foreign trade everywhere, because they make a study of the needs of the markets they seek. Until Americans do the same we can not hope to get the foreign trade we ought to have.

Mark Twain says he would not object to protection for oysters. What does he call some of the literary men who find shelter under the copyright law?

From the Providence Tribune.

It would appear from recent descriptions of his "makeup" that in the role of public entertainer Mr. Samuel Clemens is within striking distance of "black-face."

From the Detroit Journal.

If Mark Twain wasn't so good-natured context, those congressmen might take him for a real lobbyist and expect something.

O TEMPORA! O MORES!

From the Denver Rocky Mountain Herald.

All praise to Vincent and Alexander, who preferred to listen to the dictates of conscience rather than fall a prey to the snare of unprincipled avidity and filthy lucre. We do not believe the caucus was properly called, and we hope that when the roll is called on the 15th of January, it will be found that the noble example of Alexander and Vincent will be followed by others. It is a matter of extreme regret, on our part, that we are compelled by adherence to principles of integrity, and by loyalty to our convictions to strenuously oppose the appointment of Mr. Simon Guggenheim as United States senator. In doing so we wish to state emphatically that there is no personal element whatsoever in the matter. The Republican party studiously, and most persistently avoided making mention of Guggenheim during the recent campaign. They were afraid to do so, and all the time the "bosses" had contracted with the magnate. Why keep their candidate under cover if they were not ashamed of him, or if they were not afraid of public denunciation. The "bosses" put [illegible] Guggenheim should not have tolerated. The appointment of Guggenheim will please political adversaries, but it will be resented by Republicans in general, and will be a disgrace to the state. He is the representative of the trust forces, forces that our noble president with general consent is striving to curb. If he is seen to Washington, he will, more or less, come in contact with the brightest and brainest of men from all civilized nations, and naturally the question will suggest itself, is this the best that Colorado, the great boosting state of the west, can produce? The recent campaign has been carried on in a high-handed fashion, by a few men utterly incapable and unfit, either by principle or ability, to be entrusted with such serious matters, men in politics "for what there is in it," and it is no small wonder to find them blundering and floundering. When it is purely local government matters that are under treatment, we can make allowances, and overlook petty weaknesses, but the sending of a representative to our nation's capitol is a much too serious matter to be trifled with. The threatened insult to the people is one which will not soon be forgotten, and will cast a slur on the Republican party of Colorado.

The calling of the caucus is an illustration of the supervillous and high-handed method of doing business by those who arrogate to themselves the right to dictate to the people. It looks as if "dollarism" was king, when we find men of such ability, knowledge and culture as Bonynge, Valle and Springer "not wanted" because the representative and possessor of wealth is desirous of gratifying an unwarrantable ambition.

Open Parliament

RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I have read with much interest the report of the interview with E. R. Stark as published in Sunday morning's Gazette in which he states that "on the south side of Pike's Peak avenue between Corona street and the depot there are eight owne s of fifty-foot lots. Six are in favor and two are against the proposed vacation of the avenue."

Does Mr. Stark for one minute imagine that the city council or any one else has a right to vacate any street where one-fourth of the adjacent property-owners are opposed to it? Have the property owners east of the Santa Fe no rights at all? Do the people of this city want the St. Francis hospital side-tracked?

Mr. Stark also says, "if it" (the plans calling for the vacation of Pike's Peak avenue) "is not accepted and we force the Santa Fe railroad to go to a union depot our property will depreciate 10 per cent and will adjoin a freight yard." Does Mr. Stark not know that nine-tenths of the people of Colorado Springs have been hoping and praying for a union depot for the last fifteen years, and the other one-tenth have been cussing because we did not already have one? Suppose we get a union depot. How much nearer would Mr. Stark's property be to a freight yard than it is now?

Does Mr. Stark realize that a union depot in Colorado Springs will enhance the value of nearly every house and lot in Colorado Springs, the aggregate being many times the total value of all that property which he alleges will depreciate in consequence thereof.

Suppose the value of Mr. Stark's property should drop 50 per cent from the fictitious value which he has placed upon it now, and all other property in the city should increase in value from 10 to 50 per cent? he should be patriotic enough to sacrifice himself for the benefit of the many. When he bought his property Pike's Peak avenue was a street dedicated to the public and running from the Antlers hotel to the eastern limits of the city. We are doing nothing to damage his property by leaving Pike's Peak avenue as it is.

To ask the people of Colorado Springs to vacate part of that street when by so doing all hopes of ever having a union depot will be gone forever is to say the least an exhibition of such unmitigated gall that very few people have given this matter the attention which it deserves.

NOT YET, BUT SOON.

Valedictory in Cherryvale (Kan.) Times.

"When I shall return to edit the dear old paper that stands for all that is weak, all that is strong, all that is bad, al ithat is good in 26 years of my lifework, I don't know. Some time, I hope. 'Man proposes, and God disposes.'"

AFTER THE PAPER WENT TO PRESS.

South Hill Correspondent De Ruyter Gleaner.

In last week's items it said that Willie Coon was assisting Willie Wells in threshing Thursday and Friday. We want to be allowed to correct that statement, as he was there only a few hours Thursday afternoon. It said that Rutherford Coon went hunting Saturday. That should have read that he was calling on Daniel Pierce and Jesse Burdick Saturday; also that E. D. Coon was calling at Elbert Craft's instead of Albert Craft, as there is no one living here by that name. We think if there were a few more correspondents from this place perhaps the news would reach the editor a little more correct.

STOPOVER TOWN IN MISSOURI.

From the Hale (Mo.) Hustle-Leader.

Hale is not on any trunk line, and deep down in our hearts we are glad it is not. As it is, we have four trains a day, and they all stop. Here on our line if a fellow gets tired waiting and starts out on foot, it is his own fault if he lets the train overtake him. And down here on our road you can work till the train whistles and then have plenty of time in which to get ready and have your baggage checked. Trains on our line hit the low place—sometimes rather hard—but no such thing as an engine going round a curve playing whip cracker with the coaches; no wrecks; no rear-end collisions, for the two trains going the same way are always at least seven hours apart and sometimes as far distant as seventeen miles. Headon collisions are avoided by having certain places to meet, and the train that gets to those places first always waits for the other. No night trains to break one's slumbers; no Sunday trains to mar the sanctity of the Sabbath or to lure one from church service. No "Ellis" on our road but we "git there" just the same, and if we miss the Saturday train we stay over till Monday.

Bowing to Strange Gods

The Queer Worship of Queer Peoples Idolatry Widespread.

From the Philadelphia North American.

WHEREVER the sun shines mankind is engaged in the worship of a superior being. It may be a wooden idol such as the Maori of New Zealand carves for himself and sets up, or an embodiment of natural forces such as the River Ganges, upon whose receding tide the Hindoo woman confides her infant; but, whatever shape it takes, [illegible] demands devotion.

Jamaican coolies, whose ancestors came from India, erect altars in the dark undergrowth of forests, where the mystic rites are celebrated; orientals cathrone their deities in temples, while the Alaskan sets up his totem pole in the village streets.

Both the Chinese and the Japanese worship their ancestors. During and since the war of the latter country with Russia the attention of the world has been called to the Shintoism of the little brown men, which, with them, goes hand-in-hand with patriotism.

There are sun worshipers in Chicago, Buddhists in New York, and voodooists in the gulf states, so that even in this country people appear to be "running after strange gods." Yet the most peculiar and, at times, picturesque forms of worship are found in other lands.

Nearly every man and woman of today read, years ago, in the school books, of the Hindoo mother who committed her child to the bosom of the Ganges river, hoping, should it survive a journey on the holy waters, that it would be purified for the career to come. That was a true story. The Hindoo mother is doing the same thing today.

With these superstitious people such a practice means sacrifice, for the river is infested with crocodiles and the chances of an infant escaping their hideous jaws are slim.

For centuries the Ganges has played an important part in Hindoo mythology and religion.

In the religion of all classes of Hindoos—the classes in that land are almost as the sands of the seashore for number—the Ganges is held in particular veneration as the cleanser of sins and, finally, the gateway to paradise. When death reaches one upon its banks burial is made there.

Almost from the source of the Ganges to its mouth temples and shrines line the banks; the junctions of the river's various affluents are especially sanctified spots.

That of the Jumna, at Allahabad, is considered the most sacred, and, is, consequently, the most frequented place of ablutions, annually visited by thousands of pious pilgrims.

The lower sections of the river are infested with crocodiles, while tigers and other wild animals roam on the banks. Yet the Hindoo mother, with blind devotion to the teachings of her religion, calmly launches her little one upon the Ganges' tide.

Of late years the British government has taken a firm stand against this practice, although emotionally inspired women still stealthily commit their children to the waters when they are able to slip past the sentinels on the banks.

A relic, perhaps, of the same period of worship superstition, although manifest of another side of the world, are the semisecret sacerdotal practices of the laboring classes of Jamaica.

Fearful Voodoo Rites.

It is well known that the rites of voodooism are observed in Jamaica and other West Indian islands, and, to some extent, among the negroes of the southern states. Pure voodoo worship has the snake as its embodiment of deity of supernatural power. Many horrible practices, including cannibalism, have been ascribed to the followers of this faith.

In Jamaica, too, the East Indian coolie still worships the god of his native land, represented by a queer image, in front of which, book in hand, he gathers to the music of an eastern drum.

In most religious ceremonies music plays an important part. The people of Cochin-China rely upon its soothing strains almost entirely to placate their gods whom they suspect of being angry.

Upon a propitiatory occasion the inhabitants of a village assemble at the temple of the god to be conciliated, and offer him their choicest tributes of music. Horns, flutes and various other instruments have parts in this ceremony, until the god is presumed to be satisfied and removes from the community the threat of his displeasure.

A very important part of the devotional duties of the people of Ceylon lies in humoring the war god. This deity is represented by a wooden statue of great height and ferocious aspect, kept in one of the principal temples.

Near him is the gigantic figure of a peacock, which, supposedly, is able to soar away, bearing upon its back the blessings of peace or the terrors of war.

Away off in the south seas are people who firmly believe in the gods of their own manufacture. They are the Maoris of New Zealand and the surrounding islands.

In many respects a Maori god resembles the totem dignitary of the Alaskan. It is carved from a log, and, occidental ideas of beauty are not suspected in its construction.

Those who would conciliate a neighborhood god approach it reverently and rub their noses against its cold and unresponsive frontispiece. Maori girls often do this. It is one way they have of making an appeal for a suitable husband.

In the great Buddha temples of the orient, especially in China and Japan, one may observe worship of that deity. An immense figure of Buddha in the temple at Hiogo, Japan, is almost continually confronted by kneeling worshipers.

Both the Chinese and the Japanese worship their ancestors, too. The former people make it a more elaborate ceremony than do the islanders.

When a Chinese family prepares to honor its ancestors, or to appeal to them for aid and encouragement, a special altar, more or less elaborate, is erected. Upon it candles burn, costly vessels are displayed and sacred inscriptions surround it. Before such a shrine the entire family gathers, to plead with the spirits that have gone before.

Ancestral worship is the basis of the Shinto worship of Japan, which was brought more forcibly to the attention of the world at the close of that country's war with Russia.

Shintoism is simply an appeal or prayer to ancestors. The Japanese believe that the spirits of the dead are ever about them, interested in their welfare, and should, in common courtesy, be informed of all that transpires.

Japanese Shinto altars are simple affairs. One is maintained for every household; there are others for communities, and still others for the nation at large. At the conclusion of the recent war the Japanese emperor and his court proceeded in state to the imperial ancestral shrines at Ise and made devotion to the spirits of the ancestors of the emperor.

Shrines Not for Show.

As a rule, the shrines are simple. They include a rude wooden structure, or booth, before which strips of white paper, symbolizing purity, are hung. There is little else of external show, but the spirit of devotion is always deep and sincere.

Away up in Afghanistan is Sabzawar, one of the most peculiar religious meccas of the world. There, on the anniversary of Mohammed's burial, Moslem believers gather to confess and expiate their sins.

It is a veritable city of torture. Penitents permit their eyes to be put out, their tongues cut off, their ears removed, and even suffer death.

Recently an American traveler saw 900 Moslems expiate their sins there. One young woman, of her own choice, was hanged, head downward, upon white-hot stones; an old robber, with hands upstretched, without resistance, was slowly tortured to death by bags of hot sand placed upon his head; another sat for a week upon sharp nails, and later died of blood poisoning.

In such ways the human mind the world over responds to religious sentiment. Many of the practices are barbaric, according to American ideas, but they are a fixed part of the plan of salvation as accepted in other lands.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The scores of essayists who have anything to say about the New Year and New Year resolves and resolutions seem prone to treat the subject in a jocular manner. Pledges broken; resolutions not kept and promised reforms not accomplished afford ample field for a satirical tilt, and always will. It is also remarked that there is little sense in selecting the 1st of January as the time to take account of one's self, because this marking of time by calendars is an artificial device, and because a year is actually beginning every day, every minute and second of our existence.

This is not a strictly logical world, however, and men are as we find them. The first of the year is a marked time for the business world; in practice the first of the year has a meaning for most people, and there are multitudes who keep, if only cursorily and carelessly, some sort of reckoning with themselves. It is well known that the workaday world has its Monday feelings, its Sunday impressions, and its Saturday night sensations. In fact, pay-day impulses and their influence upon the efficiency and morality of workers have been the subject of an exhaustive study by a bureau of statistics maintained by one of the leading commonwealths of the Union. And the passing of a year, marked and measured by the world for convenience sake, is considered an event by most people.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said that men were seventy-year clocks and each time they count one stroke they are apt to survey the past and inquire if somewhat has been done, if too much has been neglected, and to cast an anxious glance toward the future, forming some sort of plan of action which will promise better results. The psychologists tell us that if a man makes a resolve and abides by it, he is stronger; but if he fails and breaks with himself, there is danger that he may weaken his will. But this is a notion which may be combated. If he fails to keep his resolution, the fact shows that his will or resolution is weak anyhow. Strong men, it is true, do not need to make resolutions and to register vows and promise themselves that they will do better; "they go ahead and do the thing they have set out to do" without so much as doubting that they will fail.

Resolutions and other aids are for the weak, or for those who feel that they are tottering, and are not to be despised; nor is any action which shows that the person recognizes his defect and has the desire to amend it. Every man has a ruling passion or a besetting sin, however colorless he may appear to be, and no prop or aid—not even so weak a thing as a resolution—should be neglected in the effort to rise above himself. The help from within or without which a man may command often determines his fate.

In an eastern city some years ago an eminent man had two sons, one a leading lawyer and the other in the United States navy in high command. The lawyer had every avenue of advancement open to him, with the ability, learning and industry which enabled him to take advantage of his opportunity. He was at the height of his prosperity when the habit of drink seized upon him with irresistible sway. He struggled and fought against it; his family held councils on the subject; his friends rallied to his support. He resolved a dozen times, and a dozen times he fell, and finally, when he had reached another season of contrition and amendment, his brother, who was on a distant station with his ship, decided that the time had come for action on his part. He got a long leave of absence for reasons which do not appear in the regulations, hastened home, engaged a twin house, one side of which he occupied with his family, and in the other side he persuaded his brother, with his family, to reside. Then began one of the most remarkable of contests to strengthen the will of a man.

All concerned in this battle were intelligent and cultivated people. The days of the [illegible] brother were given up to business, the social festivity of the evenings he could not escape. The houses were kept filled with friends; the wives of the two men studied cooking, in order that nothing might be lacking to a man subject to the cravings of a diseased appetite. The object of their solicitude, who was tactfully kept under surveillance day and night, was given means of enjoyment, or at least constant occupation, which kept his mind from his besetting sin. If books were read, it was somehow managed that those writers who spoke encouragement to the weak, who told of the conquering of obstacles, of manly resolution and triumph over difficulties were chosen. At the end of two years the battle had been won and a whole family had been saved from ruin.

The naval officer then lost his distaste for the sea and set sail. He had lost the greatest opportunity for preferment which had come to American sailors in a generation, but he had helped to win one of the greatest battles ever fought, and everybody acquainted with the facts knew it.

The lesson to be learned from the episode was, according to the man who made a study of the case, that in almost every sane person there is a will which can be strengthened if the proper aids—assistance from friends, sympathy and love—are brought into requisition; and that it is cowardly and vicious to lose hope in human beings. Browning states the inspiring doctrine thus:

No, when the fight begins within himself,
A man's worth something—God stoops o'er his head,
Satan looks up between his feet—both tug—
He's left, himself, i' the middle; the soul wakes
And grows. Prolong that battle through his life!
Never leave growing till the life to come!

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

From the Washington Star.

Regardless of the facts as to the Terra Cotta collision adduced by the coroner's inquest, certain questions may be asked in the interest of public safety—it would almost seem that they were addressed to the point of railroad management sanity. First of all, why should a "dead-head" train of empty coaches be run down a stretch of occupied track at a speed of a mile a minute? There can have been on this occasion no such urgent necessity for the arrival of those cars in Washington or Baltimore as to warrant an engineer in crowding a local passenger train, especially on a foggy night. Has this been the practice heretofore? What headway is allowed the fast expresses that, it is known, come dashing down this heavy grade from Cumberland several times a day?

Why should the feeble rays of a red signal lantern be alone relied upon to give warning to an approaching train that the track ahead is occupied? Why not place on the rear of each train a light strong enough to pierce a fog for at least a quarter of a mile? Why cling, in these days of improvements, to an antiquated device, often proved inadequate?

Again, why not supplement the red signal that [illegible] closed track with a torpedo that can not be mistaken, whatever the weather? If the signal has blown out, or if it is obscured by fog, the torpedo sounds a warning that the engineer can not possible misunderstand. If he ignores it the noise will attest to his fault. There will be witnesses then in plenty to fasten the responsibility.

But finally the case reverts to the inquiry, so often propounded in these days of railroad disasters. Why not adopt, even as a supplementary safeguard, one of the automatic cut-off systems that stop a locomotive when it enters an already occupied block? It may be that those now devised are imperfect and subject to derangement. But is the present system any more perfect or less subject to error? It may be doubted whether any of the devices now in evidence at railroad expositions is more open to criticism than the wretched excuse for organization that is causing an annual sacrifice of thousands of lives in the United States. Why not try them? They might work. Certainly there is a slender chance that they would fail simultaneously with the present methods. And, furthermore, the trial of such machines in practical railroading, perhaps under a federal prescription, would tend to develop them to a more perfect stage.

One of the worst faults of our American railroad system today is its peculiar blend of conservatism and progress. The roads are being developed rapidly along certain lines, in the increase of power, in the construction of roadbeds, in the straightening of tracks. But in the adoption of new devices they are slow. The average inventor has a hard time getting a hearing. "Go and perfect your machine," he is often told, "and then we may talk business." If the railroad management was as cautious about crowding schedules and working the equipment as it is about listening to men with schemes to save lives the death roll would doubtless be much smaller.

The inquest into this local horror may not develop along the lines of ultimate cause, it being the function of the coroner's jury only to fasten the blame for this particular instance of mismanagement. But it is so thoroughly characteristic of the tendency on many lines toward rushing the rolling stock to squeeze the last dollar of dividends out of the gross earnings that it may well profit the interstate commerce commission to observe it closely and formulate upon the findings a measure of recommendation to congress looking to a broad, sweeping inquiry into the whole matter of safeguards and dangers in our railroad traffic, to be followed by drastic legislation.

$75,000,000 A YEAR IN TIPS.

From the London Standard.

A statistician whose calculations may be taken to be as trustworthy as statistics usually are estimates that the money given away yearly in tips in France amounts to nearly £15,000,000, over £4,000,000 being bestowed in Paris alone. His calculations are based on the assumption that each inhabitant in Paris spends seven-twelfths of a penny and each inhabitant of the provinces one farthing a day in tips. With an income tax in prospect, Frenchmen are no doubt looking out for different ways of economizing; therefore the statistics of tips would furnish a valuable suggestion.

HOLBROOK & PERKINS

A SPLENDID RECORD

HUMANE SOCIETY DID GOOD WORK IN 1906.

Will Endeavor to Raise $1,200 For This Year—Annual Meeting Held. Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the El Paso county branch of the State Bureau of Child and Animal Protection was held in this city yesterday afternoon the officers and directors with one exception, being re-elected. Mrs. F. W. Goddard was elected vice president in place of Francis B. Hill resigned.

Following are the officers elected: Dr. W. F. Slocum, president; Mrs. F. W. Goddard, vice president; George Rex Buckman, treasurer; and W. P. Richards, secretary. These comprise the directorate together with Mrs. F. W. Kent, Francis B. Hill, Mrs. S. F. Solly, Miss E. T. Bayley and Miss Dorsey.

The report of Agent J. P. Neff, for nine months ending December 31, showed that he handled a total of 391 cases in that time, most of which were settled by the defendants, or the sufferings of the various victims alleviated. These cases included those of 22 men, 21 women, 56 boys and 51 girls. In addition there were 425 cattle handled, 262 mules, horses and burros and 4[illegible] dogs and other small animals. Fifteen children were sent to different homes, 19 nonsupport cases handled, 43 animals killed, 13 cases of crippled dogs and 15 cases of poisoned dogs looked after.

Agent Neff caused seven wells to be built, three shelter barns to be erected and numerous barns to be repaired, all in connection with the betterment of the condition of horses and cattle.

There were 268 warnings given, the majority of these cases being settled out of court. Out of 19 cases prosecuted only one was lost. The cases won comprised charges of nonsupport, cruelty to children and cruelty to animals.

The work of Agent Neff has been satisfactory to the local branch, according to Secretary Richards, and he will be retained. The agent is appointed by the state bureau and paid by the local branch.

The report of Treasurer Buckman showed a balance in the treasury of $151.30. The council has appropriated $300 to the society, making a total of $451.30. The members will endeavor to raise a total of $1,200 for the expenses of the present year, and will at once take steps to secure subscriptions.

SAYS PIGEON CROSSED OCEAN

Corrin Says Carrier Pigeon Made Remarkable Flight.

A carrier pigeon owned by Joseph Corrin, a tailor of 107 East Bijou street, in an effort to find its owner, recently flew across the Atlantic ocean, according to Mr. Corrin. Mr. Corrin left his pigeons caged at his home, 1827 North Weber street, going directly to New York and there taking a steamer for England. When he arrived at his father's home in England he found one of his carrier pigeons he says, sitting on the front porch, apparently awaiting his arrival.

LA FOLLETTE TO SPEAK HERE

Wisconsin Senator to Lecture Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

Senator Robert La Follette, ex-governor of Wisconsin, will lecture in the opera house in Colorado Springs in April, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Star Lecture and Entertainment course. The exact date for the lecture and the subject will be announced later.

The address by Senator La Follette will take the place of Maude Ballington Booth's lecture, as she will be unable to visit this city. Senator La Follette is one of the best known and most popular of the reform politicians in the United States. He has a wide reputation of being a good orator and will doubtless be greeted by a packed house.

TO ENFORCE THE LAW

COLORADO CITY WINE ROOMS MUST GO, SAYS COUNCIL.

Mayor Instructed to See That Closing Law Is Obeyed—Mounted Officer Dispensed With.

Relations between the Colorado City council and the police marshal were strained to the breaking point last night, when, at an executive session of the council a resolution was passed stating that it had come to the knowledge of the city council that the ordinances against wine rooms Sunday closing, midnight closing and 6 o'clock openings were being violated and instructing the mayor of Colorado City to take the necessary steps to enforce the laws. The office of mounted police was also done away with and the council recommended to the police committee that the marshal and one patrolman should be on day duty while two patrolmen should be on duty during the entire night. Police Marshal Birdsall was indignant when he learned of the council's action and in addressing [illegible] the aldermen, said:

"This is the first time I ever heard of a city council excluding the police marshal from its meetings and then going ahead and disposing of the duties of his office."

When asked what action he would take regarding the council's instructions to take steps necessary to enforce the ordinances against wine rooms and the saloon closing laws, Mayor John F. Murray last night said:

"I do not believe that it will be necessary for me to take any action. The officers will be instructed to perform their duties and I believe they will do so."

Mayor Murray was then asked if there had been any discussion regarding the reports that gambling is being carried on either openly or under cover in Colorado City. He replied in the negative.

Vote Unanimous

The action of the council it is said was partially brought about by one of the aldermen finding the saloon conducted by John Dougherty, at 506 Colorado avenue, running open and filled with men about 2 o'clock one morning last week. Numerous complaints have also been received that contrary to the city ordinances and the state law a number of the Colorado City saloon keepers have been conducting wine rooms in connection with their saloons.

During the regular meeting of the council last night, Kaysbier moved that the council go into executive session. It was during this session that the resolution concerning the enforcement of the ordinances was introduced and passed, all the aldermen present voting yes. Alderman Hinkston was absent. The resolution follows:

Whereas, It has come to the knowledge of the city council that the ordinances against wine rooms Sunday closing and 6 o'clock opening are being violated, be it resolved by the city council of Colorado City that the mayor take such action as is necessary to enforce the city ordinances."

In regard to disposing of the office of the mounted policeman, the council recommended to the police board that the office of mounted officer be done away with and the mounted officer be made a patrolman. It also recommended that the police marshal and one patrolman should be on duty during the day, leaving the other two patrolmen for night duty. Officer Bert Webb is at present mounted officer, and aside from making him patrolman this recommendation will cause no further changes.

Routine Business

Miscellaneous bills to the amount of $858.45 were allowed. The salary roll amounted to $850. A total of $41 was allowed as the salary roll for the street department.

According to the report of the city treasurer the city had in the bank on December 31, the sum of $8,284.56. Warrants to the amount of $2,945.91 were redeemed during the month of December.

The police magistrate reported that he had collected in fines during the past month the sum of $438.

The city physician reported five deaths and seven births for December. The health of the city is generally good.

The fire chief reported that during the last month the department had responded to five alarms. In speaking of the false alarms Fire Chief Bishop said at the council meeting:

"We intend to make every effort to discover persons who turn in false alarms and anyone who is caught will be punished as the city ordinances provide."

On motion of Alderman Carpenter, chairman of the police committee, the council instructed the police marshal to have the extra patrolman who was put on night duty shortly before Christmas as his services were no longer needed.

Alderman Kaysbier moved that the mounted officer be instructed to turn in a report of all dog taxes and fees collected by him during the last year and to turn over said moneys to the city clerk who should in turn intrust it to the city treasurer. The motion was passed.

All the aldermen were present, Alderman Hinkson leaving shortly after the beginning of the meeting. In the absence of the city clerk, City Attorney F. P. Jackson acted as clerk.

STOCKS WEAK.—Stocks were generally weak on exchange yesterday morning. In the mines, Likton gained 1-16, and Findley to 7 1-2, but El Paso declined to 59 1-8 and Isabella to 76 3-4. Rio Pharmacist lost to 4 1-2 and Work to 19. Portland closed lower without sale at $1.37 bid although this was ex-dividend.

READY FOR BUSINESS

CITY ANXIOUS TO SETTLE HYDRO CLAIM.

Electric Company Attorney Will Today Be Asked to Rush Selection of Arbitrator.

The claim of the city against the Pike's Peak Hydro-Electric company for over $10,000 in rebates as a result of the low candle power of the street arc lights will come to a hearing before a mutually satisfactory arbitrator within a short time, according to the present plans of the special committee appointed by the city council to handle the matter. Professor J. A. Shedd, of Colorado college who has been cast in the interest of the city with regard to securing expert testimony and opinions on the subject, returned to Colorado Springs yesterday and the city is now ready for immediate procedure in the matter.

City Attorney Robinson is satisfied with the case of the city, according to Alderman F. S. Tucker, chairman of the Hydro committee, and today Attorney K. C. Schuyler, acting for the Hydro company, will be communicated with and an earnest effort made to bring the matter before an arbitrator. Attorney Schuyler, who was occupied for several days with the Winchester mining suit in Denver, was taken ill after the completion of that suit, but is expected to be attending to his business affairs in a few days and arrangements will probably be made today between the city and Hydro company for a speedy agreement as to the arbitrator. Aldermen Albin Verner and Tucker comprise the Hydro committee.

At the council meeting last night Alderman Hill asked regarding the progress of the Hydro matter. Tucker then gave the above information. Verner asked concerning the report that the city attorney would not further undertake the case of the city. I have talked with Attorney Robinson with regard to that point, said Tucker, "and am assured that he will take up the matter."

Steps will also be taken to prosecute the court trial of the suit of the city against the Hydro company for an interpretation of the terms of the Jackson franchise. This suit is to compel the Hydro company to sell power to the city as cheap as it does to the Colorado Springs Electric company, its most favored patron. After many delays this case was set for trial in the District court for December 28, Judge Bennett of the judicial district having been agreed on by both sides. Attorney Schuyler was busy with the Winchester case in Denver at that time and the trial was therefore postponed. Judge Bennett's term of office expires today, so it will be necessary to agree on a new trial judge.

JUDGES NAME THEIR CLERKS

Edgar Howbert Gets El Paso County Appointment—Court Will Sit En Banc This Morning.

Judges J. W. Sheafor, W. S. Morris and James Owen of the Fourth judicial district, yesterday appointed district clerks for five of the seven counties comprising the Fourth district as follows: Edgar Howbert, El Paso; W. E. Dingman, Teller; Wyatt Boger, Kit Carson; Dr. Rogers, Elbert; and I. D. Owen, Douglas. There were no appointment for Cheyenne and Lincoln counties, no application having been received. The present incumbents will hold over until their successors are chosen.

O. E. Rickerson, Jr., was appointed deputy district clerk in El Paso county. The other deputy clerks will be appointed in the various counties by the respective district clerks, with the approval of the court.

Edgar Howbert, district clerk of this county, was for 12 years prior to the six year term just ended, district clerk here. He is a brother of President Irving Howbert of the Portland Gold Mining company, as well as of C. W. Howbert, also a prominent mining man, and of Frank Howbert, well known in Denver political circles.

The three judges will sit en banc in the local district court at 10 o'clock this morning for the organization of the bench, the formal appointment of Clerk Howbert and the distribution of business to the various district clerks.

CLASS GIVES MEMORIAL.

High School Presented With Portion of Parthenon Frieze.

The class of '06 of the High school presented a memorial to the school yesterday afternoon. Hubert Perry, president of the class, made the presentation speech. Abraham Pfeiffer of the class of '07 received the gift in behalf of the school. The memorial is the western portion of the Parthenon frieze and has been placed over the western entrance to the auditorium of the High school. This frieze is the third portion of the Parthenon frieze that has been given to the school by graduating classes, the other two being given by the classes of '03 and '05 respectively. The names with which these works were bought was made from class plays given by the various classes. The class of '07 will be the first class to depart from the custom of giving a work of art to the school. Its gift is to be in the shape of some equipment for the new athletic field which will be put in place in the near future.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS

No Friction Between Coal Miners and Operators.

According to the coal mine operators, several of whom were seen yesterday, there have been no new developments in the matter of the alleged demands of the union for shorter hours and increased pay. The work at the mines is going ahead as usual and the operators were not in receipt yesterday of any notification from the union regarding the resolutions said to have been passed on Sunday. So far there has been no friction whatever between the operators and the workmen and the hope is generally expressed that no trouble will be experienced.

MINE OWNERS MEET

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF FIVE MEMBERS ELECTED.

Officers Will Be Chosen in Short Time—Present Card System Will Be Continued.

The annual meeting of the Cripple Creek District Mine Owners and Operators association was held in the Hagerman block this city yesterday afternoon. The principal business transacted was the election of an executive committee of five with full power to act for the association in all matters during the ensuing year.

The executive committee elected is as follows: Sam McDonald, Nelson Franklin, William Bainbridge, E. H. Bebee and Leslie G. Carlton. The committee will meet in a few days and elect a president and secretary. Bainbridge will probably be re-elected president of the association. A. L. Arnold has been acting secretary of the organization. All are of Cripple Creek and Victor.

No action was taken at the meeting with regard to the card system now in vogue and the present procedure will be continued, about 85 mine owners present owning big property in the district being represented.

GOLD FOUND NEAR THIS CITY

Strikes Made in Camp Creek and McNamara Tunnels—Trial Shipment to Be Sent Out.

During the last few days gold has been found in paying quantities in the Camp Creek tunnel at the head of Williams canon near Manitou, after the tunnel had been abandoned for 12 years. Some of the samples when assayed gave values as high as $12. Archie Neeley, William Pine and John Davidson started the tunnel and will continue to develop it.

It is rumored that another strike which is said to give assays of from $50 to $175 per ton has been made in the McNamara tunnel near Windy Point, on the Short Line road. A trial shipment, it is said, will be made this week.

COLORADO COLLEGE INCLUDED

Is in Revised List of Institutions Entitled to Share in Andrew Carnegie Fund.

Colorado college is included in the revised list of colleges in the United States whose instructors are entitled to share in the Andrew Carnegie fund of $10,000,000 when they became disabled from sickness or any other cause and are no longer able to carry on their work. The local institution was on the original list and to be placed on the revised list may be considered a special honor and a recognition of its high standing among the leading colleges of the country, especially in view of the fact that many well-known colleges which were on the first list are not included in the revised.

Among the accepted institutions are Colorado college, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, George Washington university, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Knox college, Iowa, Lawrence, Leland Stanford, Marietta college, Vassar, Wabash college, Washington university, St. Louis, Washington and Jefferson college, Western Reserve university.

CARD OF THANKS

To the many friends of herself and her late husband, Mrs. A. K. Conacher desires to offer grateful acknowledgement of the many kindnesses and great sympathy shown in her distress, at loss of her husband, also for the many marks of esteem at his funeral. Her husband's family [illegible] desire to add their thanks.

Several Important Topics Will Be Discussed Today.

Mrs. F. W. A. Fisk will be in charge of the W. C. T. U. prayer service to be held at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, 228 East St. Vrain street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. "Peace and Arbitration," "Law Enforcement," "Christian Citizenship," "Medical Temperance," and "Anti-narcotics" will be the topics which will come up for discussion. Probation Officer William Reasoner will speak on the last subject. The public is invited to these services which will be held daily during the week.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Colorado Springs People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first.

But when you know its from the kidneys.

That serious kidney troubles follow.

That diabetes, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

Its the statement of a Colorado Springs citizen.

James Niles, of the Santa Cimarron street carpenter, says:

"During the fall of 1898 and the winter of 1899 an attack of headache persistently clung to me. If I had taken it in time, I might have checked it in its earliest stages, but I neglected it and when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills there was not the slightest doubt but some derangement of the kidneys caused the annoyance. As the treatment cured me, I am only too pleased to endorse the remedy.

Plenty more proof like this from Colorado Springs people. Call at D. Y. Butcher Drug company's store and ask what their customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

THE Freshness

of a freshly roasted coffee is one of the strongest points in its favor.

A 25-cent grade of coffee that is fresh will taste much better in the cup than a stale 45-cent grade.

This is why we press the sale of our

Mexican Brand of Coffee

We know it's always freshly roasted, whereas we're not so sure about the freshness of the extensively advertised 40 and 50 cent canned kinds.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS LITTLE STRENGTH.

Early Promise of Large Business for Day Not Maintained in the Later Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The early promise of a large business in stocks for the day was not maintained in the later market. The dullness which intervened was due to a seeming suspension of speculative opinion between the conflicting influence of marked strength in one set of speculative favorites and weakness in another.

The irregular opening was followed by an active buying movement which caused a fairly comprehensive advance. Distinct lines of clearance in the movement then developed. In Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated there was obvious selling pressure and an important distribution going on, which was interpreted as a movement to take profits on the part of buyers whose initiative last week had so much to do with stirring up the speculative revival. There was no change in the conditions which were supposed to have incited this buying. There were perceptible, however, some differences in the construction placed on these conditions. These had to do with the tone of the public discussion of the disclosure of the affairs of the Harriman companies. The effect of the powerful position of these companies was mollified by the suggestion that the showing might in itself invite measures of hostility and repression by government agencies. The appearance of joint distribution in the market of Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Reading was regarded as rather imposing evidence of the market views of a party whose leadership in the speculative movement is of widespread influence.

The news from Washington of the upholding by the supreme court of the New York state stock transfer tax was a disappointment to market operators, as hopes have been built on this suit of relief from a burden that has had a recognized influence in repressing activity in the stock market.

Late in the day there was some added stiffness in the tone of the call loan rate, which rose to 10 per cent with added effect on prices. Railroad traffic officials were united in admitting a reduction in the pressure of traffic, which promised relief from the car shortage. The late flurry in money caused an irregular closing.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $2,940,000.

U. S. 2s advanced ¼ per cent on call.

MAKING WINE FROM FIGS.

From the Daily Consular Report.

Consul Maxwell Blake, of Funchal, advises that some interest has been aroused in the island of Madeira as the result of experiments conducted by an Italian chemist, Professor Pagisel, who declares that the juice of the fig under proper treatment can be converted into a wine of excellent taste.

The professor states that its flavor is agreeable, that it is very rich in phosphate matter and almost wholly destitute of tannic acid, qualities that render it especially nourishing to invalids and children. The pulp is said also to create a new food for milch cows and fowls. The fresh fig contains only about 25 per cent of sugar, but after it has been dried and prepared for the making of wine it yields 80 per cent sugar.

WHEAT MARKET FIRM

SELLING SCATTERED; CHIEFLY BY LOCAL LONGS.

Active Demand by Shorts and Commission Houses.—Corn Dull. Oats Firm.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The wheat market was firm all day on active deamnd by shorts and commission houses. Selling was scattered and chiefly by local longs. At the outset the market was strengthened by a decreased movement in the northwest, unfavorable weather and a moderate advance at Liverpool. The world's shipments for the week were somewhat less than the amount previously estimated, but exceeded by almost a million bushels shipment for the same week last year. The visible supply caused some bullish feeling late in the day. The market closed firm. May opened a shade to ⅛@¼ higher at 75½ to 75⅝, advanced to 76, and closed at 75¾.

The corn market was dull and firm all day. May opened ⅛ to ¼ higher at 43⅜ to 43¾, sold up to 43⅝ and closed at 43½@⅝.

The oats market was firm, but the volume of trading was small. Buying was chiefly by shorts. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 35⅝@¾, to 36@36⅛, and closed at 35⅞@36.

Provisions were weak early in the day because of heavy selling of May lard. Before the end of the first hour, however, the market had gained nearly all of the early loss. At the close May pork was off 2½c, lard 2½, and ribs a shade lower.

ANOTHER RICH STREAK

MORE GOOD FORTUNE FOR MARSH AND HODGES.

Over an Inch of Practically Solid Sylvanite Ore Is Encountered. High Values.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—It is reported that Marsh and Hodges, operating on the Little Clara claim through the Ophelia tunnel of the Work company on Raven hill, blew into another very rich streak of ore about 585 feet from the surface and the breast of the slope. It is stated that over an inch of [illegible] was found and this streak will give values of from $3 to $5 in gold to the pound.

Marsh and Hodges have less than two months until the expiration of their lease on the Little Clara. They have been shipping from 75 to 100 tons of ore a day. For the past several weeks the ore has not been of as high a grade as it was a few months ago but the coming unexpectedly onto the rich streak will likely raise the value of the ore materially.

After the Little Clara lease expires on Marsh and Hodges there will not be very much ore in sight as they are mining it as rapidly as possible and are taking out practically all of it.

It has not been determined by the Work company if the Little Clara will be operated on company account, or if it will again be leased. It will undoubtedly require considerable dead work before much ore can be found. There is a general opinion that the lower or second McKinney flat vein traverses the Little Clara about 75 or 100 feet below the present ore shoot. If leased or worked on company account it is very likely a winze will be sunk to determine if the other flat vein is in this property or not.

PURE COPPER IN PARK COUNTY

Ranchman Discovers Natural Specimen at Foot of Black Mountain. Creates Much Excitement.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—A. G. Bowman, formerly a groceryman at Goldfield, Colo., now living on a ranch near Guffy, Park county, yesterday brought in some specimens of natural copper, which had been found in an 80-foot shaft at the foot of Black mountain, a half mile from the Bowman ranch.

The copper specimens were so flexible that the ore could be bent in the hand. It appeared to be practically pure, and Bowman declares he has a vein 16 feet wide.

The find created no little excitement here, and a number of residents made haste to get to the scene of the new discovery.

MANY BIG DEALS PENDING

Consummation of Transactions Hung on Drainage Tunnel.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—It is reported that there are now pending upward of a half dozen big mining deals and that they will probably be consumated this month. The making of these deals hung largely on the deep drainage tunnel, although none of the properties will be effected with water for a long time to come. The purchasers, however, wanted to be on the safe side.

Some of these deals, it is rumored will run away up in the thousands of dollars while other will range around $10,000 and $15,000. The biggest one will probably mean an outlay of $150,000.

HOW TO AVOID PNEUMONIA

You can avoid pneumonia and other serious results from a cold by taking Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough and expels the cold from the system as it is mildly laxative. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. All dealers.

STOWELL CO. STARTS MILL

Is Treating Anna C Ore at Rate of Forty Tons Daily.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—The Stowell Leasing company operating on the Anna C claim on the southeast slope of Copper mountain, which has a lease on the Beacon-Rhyolite mill, has started the mill to treat Anna C ore; about 40 tons a day will be cared for at the beginning. The Stowell Leasing company found a vein from four to five feet wide that carries lead, silver and gold ore in an old incline shaft. Tests were made, and it was found that the total value would give returns of from $50 to $70. Another shaft is sunk to an approximate depth of 200 feet, and the ore shoot was found practically from the surface down to the present depth of the shaft.

BIG STRIKE IS CONFIRMED

Recent Find in Portland Mine Gives Returns of Thirty Dollars in Gold to the Ton.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—President Irving Howbert has confirmed the rumor of the big strike in the Portland. It was made in a winze 1262 feet from the surface off from the No. 2 shaft. The ore body is about five or six feet wide and the value of the ore is said to give returns of about $30 in gold to the ton.

It is stated on good authority that the Portland mine has not been getting out as large a tonnage recently as was usual, only approximately 7,500 to 8,000 being mined. However, with the new strike and the opening up of other ore it is expected that in January the tonnage will be up to the usual 10,000.

CLOSE TO 850 FOOT POINT

Bigger Tonnage Expected by Standard Company.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 7.—The Standard Mining and Leasing company operating on the South Burns claim of the Acacia company on Bull hill, has nearly reached the 850 foot point in the shaft and has recently increased the ore house capacity 500 tons by an addition. The ore is being mined at a depth of 800 feet and a larger tonnage is being made than ever before.

Baby Mine

Every mother feels a great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of misery. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of the great pain and danger of maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the dangerous accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," say many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book containing valuable information of interest to all women, will be sent to any address free upon application to BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Mother's Friend

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

M'INTYRE AND HEATH IN "THE HAM TREE."

The most important musical attraction booked in this city is Klaw and Erlanger's production of George V. Hobart's new musical vaudeville, "The Ham Tree," of which McIntyre and Heath, the widely-known black-face comedians, are the stars. They will be the attraction at the Opera house this evening.

Klaw and Erlanger certainly chose wisely when they selected these two men as the stars of "The Ham Tree." As creators of innocent merriment they certainly have no equals. Mr. Hobart, in the writing of "The Ham Tree," took their time old sketch, "The Georgia Minstrels," which McIntyre and Heath had been playing for several years, and wrote his play around it. The result is one of the greatest laugh makers the American stage has ever known, and from the time of the rise of the curtain till its final fall, at the end of the performance, these clever artists keep the audience in a continuous roar of laughter. Klaw and Erlanger have given these players their usual elaborate production and have surrounded them with a remarkable company headed by Jeanne Towler, Carolyn Gordon, Belle Gold, David Torrence and Alfred Fisher. Frederick V. Bowers, the popular tenor and song writer, and W. C. Fields, the tramp juggler, are also conspicuous members of the cast.

A REAL COMIC OPERA COMING.

When Manager Joseph M. Gaites' superb singing organization, with Cheridah Simpson at the head of it, presents "Red Feather," the successful romantic comic opera, at the Opera house next Friday evening, those who enjoy good music, well sung, will have a treat. It is needless to compare Mr. DeKoven's work with some of his other operas, for the score of "Red Feather" is said to fit its place and sentiment admirably and stands upon its own merits despite the fact that in "Robin Hood," the composer set a standard which, in the opinion of many theatergoers, it would be impossible for him to duplicate. The story of the opera is located in the mythical kingdom of Romanelia, and the scenes of the ideal region suggest the Alps and the Venice of Italy, with a touch of the Orient. The costuming is elaborate, not dependent on tinsel and stage jewelry, but presenting a series of artistic creations, ingenious in design and rich in material. Abundant use is made of glittering military uniforms. There is a bewildering display of stunning dresses. The costumes are worn by German soldiers, international girls, diplomats, milliners, white lace officers, conspirators, waitresses, servants, court gentlemen, townsfolk and dancers, and go to make up a show of infinite variety in beautiful color schemes.

"DOROTHY VERNON OF HADDON HALL."

The emphatic triumph which signalized Miss Alberta Gallatin's initial appearance in Ernest Shipman's beautiful production of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" has been fully sustained in the subsequent performances and bids fair to be repeated in this city when Miss Gallatin appears at the Opera house on next Saturday evening. Paul Kester's clever dramatization of Charles Major's widely-read historical novel brings into the fullest light Miss Gallatin's wonderful attainments in comedy and powerful emotion.

Mr. Shipman has surrounded Miss Gallatin with a company of such capable strength that the entire dramatic rendering is of most satisfying excellence. Liberality and good taste are conspicuous in Mr. Shipman's mounting of the play, which is rich in picturesque and striking architectural effects, the scenes of Haddon Hall and, notably, that of the terrace, with its rich foliage and clinging creepers, being scenic masterpieces. The production of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" is proving the greatest kind of a success elsewhere, both from an artistic and popular standpoint, and, judging from this fact, the engagement here should be a most successful one.

THE UGLY DUCKLING.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The plain girl must not be ill tempered. If she has plain features she need not have an ugly disposition. She must be so sunny in her expression that she makes those who look at her forget how plain she is.

The unattractive girl can always have attractive hands. She takes great care of her nails and can polish them until they are as pink as rose leaves and as glossy as marble. She can put soothing and beautifying creams upon them to make them white and massage them until they are plump.

The plain girl can learn to walk well. There is no reason why she should not hold her shoulders erect and walk gracefully. She can also have a good figure, and she can dress well. The ugly girl can speak prettily, and in this way add charm to her personality. She can be graceful, too. The fact that nature did not give her a naturally pretty face need not keep her from being graceful.

The ugly girl should have virtues of [illegible] heart. A good heart shines through the eyes. You can tell by the minute you look at a person and how one loves a person with a kind heart instinctively and with a glad little [illegible] of gratitude!

A NEW COPPER COMPANY

After six months negotiations we have succeeded in securing

200 ACRES IN THE HEART OF THE COPPER ZONE OF ELY, NEVADA

This property lays near the Guggenheim mines and almost joins the famous Giroux copper mine on the west; this ground lays in the proven copper zone, and copper has been struck on all sides. We are now incorporating a company to develop this property, and within [illegible] low price, and will announce same later.

EXPERTS SAY THAT ELY, NEVADA, IS THE GREATEST COPPER DISTRICT IN AMERICA

There being one billion dollars worth of copper in sight. Millions of dollars are now being expended in the erection of smelter and reduction works in this district, and stocks that a few months ago sold for a trifle are now selling as high as $18.00 per share. We have just returned from making a personal investigation of this property and the Ely district, and are convinced of its merits. Call and let us show you the ore and maps of the district and explain our proposition.

12,000 yards of torchon laces on sale at 5c the yard

A purchase from the manufacturer of about 12,000 yards of torchon laces, including some especially handsome patterns. The entire lot are of pleasing designs and they would sell under ordinary circumstances from 10c to 20c a yard. The widths range from one to about five inches. They will be placed on sale today and until they are sold at; yard, 5c.

The undermuslin and linen sale attracts hundreds

Yesterday marked the opening of a most remarkable white event. Women who anticipated economy were here together with those who always look forward to this occasion to supply their wardrobe with the choicest of the world's production.

There were none disappointed. Values, quality and quantity were here and those who attended were quick to recognize it. Today and all week the same prices will prevail.
